

Call for papers...special issue on Zubiri and new and emerging technology and science

The Xavier Zubiri Review is soliciting papers for its 15th edition, which will be published in 2019. Papers dealing with any aspect of Zubiri's philosophy or biography will be considered, but we would like to dedicate this issue to the subject of new and emerging technologies and how they and their interaction with society can be understood on the basis of Zubiri's philosophy, vis-à-vis Zubiri's philosophy of humans as reality conscious animals and his notion of sentient intelligence. Among the topics of interest are:

- Capabilities of and limitations to artificial intelligence
- Will man be overtaken in intelligence by his creations?
- Robots and what they are ultimately capable of doing
- Virtual reality (broached by Professor Gracia in this issue)
- The reality of virtual particles in quantum field theory
- Genetic manipulation and living things, especially humans
- Degree to which 3-d printed organs and related technology will erode the gap between living and non-living things

These are only a few of the areas of interest.

All papers are reviewed by the Editorial Review Board, and authors may be asked to make changes or corrections. Papers may be in any language, though English and Spanish are preferred. Papers should be 10-20 pages in length, and should be submitted electronically if possible, by email attachment. Charts, diagrams, and photographs are acceptable, though they will only be printed in black-and-white. All papers accepted will be published on the Xavier Zubiri Foundation of North America's web site, www.zubiri.org, as well as in printed form. Papers must be received no later than 1 April 2019 to be considered for this issue. Authors should also include a brief biography and a photograph, or be prepared to supply them after acceptance of their paper for publication.

We are also seeking Zubiri-related books to review. If you wish to have your book reviewed in these pages, or if you would like to serve as a book reviewer, please contact the editor at the address below, or send an e-mail message.

Please send papers and books to review to:
